

GCSE Health and Social Care Unit 2 4722-01

All Candidates' performance across questions

 Question Title	 N	 Mean	 S D	 Max Mark	 F F	 Attempt %
1	1388	1.5	0.5	2	76.7	99.9
2	1391	5.4	1.3	6	89.3	100.1
3	1387	2.6	1.7	6	42.9	99.8
4	1390	2.7	1	4	68.5	100
5	1385	7.7	2.4	12	63.9	99.6
6	1388	7.6	3.4	15	51	99.9
7	1381	9.7	3.2	15	64.6	99.3
8	1368	8.8	3.4	20	44.2	98.4

8. Tegan is a 43 year-old woman who is happily married with two children. She had a happy childhood and her parents looked after her well.

(a) Explain how the family supported Tegan's emotional development to ensure she had a happy childhood. [4]

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

8. Tegan is a 43 year-old woman who is happily married with two children. She had a happy childhood and her parents looked after her well.

(a) Explain how the family supported Tegan's emotional development to ensure she had a happy childhood. [4]

Her family supported her emotionally by looking after her and caring for her. She could feel emotionally stable with a good family unit around her and could feel as though she belonged in that unit, making her content. Encouragement and praise would also help Tegan emotionally and could increase her self-esteem.

8. Tegan is a 43 year-old woman who is happily married with two children. She had a happy childhood and her parents looked after her well.

4

(a) Explain how the family supported Tegan's emotional development to ensure she had a happy childhood. [4]

Her family supported her emotionally by looking after her and caring for her. She could feel emotionally stable with a good family unit around her and could feel as though she belonged in that unit making her content. Encouragement and praise would also help her Tegan emotionally and could increase her self-esteem.

8. Tegan is a 43 year-old woman who is happily married with two children. She had a happy childhood and her parents looked after her well.

(a) Explain how the family supported Tegan's emotional development to ensure she had a happy childhood. [4]

The family helped her and supported her emotionally.

Tought Tegan emotionally well.

8. Tegan is a 43 year-old woman who is happily married with two children. She had a happy childhood and her parents looked after her well.

0

- (a) Explain how the family supported Tegan's emotional development to ensure she had a happy childhood. [4]

The family helped her and supported her emotionally.
Tegan's family supported her emotionally well.

8. Tegan is a 43 year-old woman who is happily married with two children. She had a happy childhood and her parents looked after her well.

only

- (a) Explain how the family supported Tegan's emotional development to ensure she had a happy childhood. [4]

When Tegan was going through rough times she must of always had the emotional support she needed. For example with exams, Tegan was probably always encouraged to do her best which made her confident. Also going through puberty she was always reassured everything was OK to feel comfortable in herself. Furthermore with relationships she would of always been supported if arguments ~~occurred~~^{occurred} occurred.

8. Tegan is a 43 year-old woman who is happily married with two children. She had a happy childhood and her parents looked after her well.

only

3

- (a) Explain how the family supported Tegan's emotional development to ensure she had a happy childhood. [4]

When Tegan was going through rough times she most of always had the emotional support she needed. For example with exams, Tegan was probably always encouraged to do her best which made her confident. Also going through puberty she was always reassured everything was OK to feel comfortable in herself. Furthermore with relationships she would of always been supported if arguments ~~occurred~~^{occured} occurred.

8. (b) Discuss how a family can provide an environment that will encourage a child to progress through the physical, intellectual and social developmental milestones. [8]

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

(b) Discuss how a family can provide an environment that will encourage a child to progress through the physical, intellectual and social developmental milestones. [8]

She would be able to do a lot of things earlier than other children. She would have friends and would not be alone because of having no happy past. She would cooperate with others due to ~~being~~ ^{being} kind and caring. She would learn things better than other children. They could give the child toys which could help the child with the milestones. ~~They~~ They could see if the child is progressing with the milestones ~~to help her~~. They could help the child with some milestones. ~~They~~ They could support the child in progressing in their milestones.

(b) Discuss how a family can provide an environment that will encourage a child to progress through the physical, intellectual and social developmental milestones. [8]

She would be able to do a lot of things earlier than other children. She would have friends and would not be alone because of having no happy past. She would cooperate with others due to ~~being~~ ^{being} kind and caring. She would learn things better than other children. They could give the child toys which could help the child with their milestones. ~~They could~~ They could assess if the child is progressing with the milestones ~~to help her~~ ^{to help her}. They could help the child with some milestones ~~to help her~~ ^{to help her}. They could support the child in progressing in their milestones.

encourage a child to progress through the physical milestones by visiting playgrounds^{and} parks often to strengthen their gross motor skills e.g. jumping, walking, climbing which will enable them to develop. ~~according to~~ Furthermore play can provide by encouraging them to do lots of sporting activity games and guiding them e.g. babies walking. Moreover a family can provide an environment that will encourage a child to progress through the intellectual developmental milestones by promoting a good attitude to learning for example having books around the house for the child to pick up and read. Also reading bedtimes stories could encourage the child to read more often. Also encourage a child to progress through the physical milestones by visiting playgrounds, parks often to strengthen their gross motor skills e.g. jumping, walking, climbing which will enable them to develop. ~~according to~~ Furthermore play can provide by encouraging them to do lots of sporting activity games and guiding them i.e. babies walking. Moreover a family can provide an environment that will encourage a child to progress through the intellectual developmental milestones by promoting a good attitude to learning for example having books around the house for the child to pick up and read. Also reading bedtime stories could encourage the child to read more often. Also

For physical they can encourage the child to ~~walk~~ making the child develop a skill in bike riding. Also they could make the child engage in physical activities running. Also if they are a baby they can help them walk by brushing their feet on the ledge of stairs. For intellectual they set a range of appropriate books for the child to read to improve their knowledge. Also they could make the child play board games so they could improve the child's problem solving skills. For emotional by giving them love by showing affection the ~~world~~^{child} would form an emotional attachment for the first time. Also by showing them. For social they could arrange play dates with other children so the child can form bonds, which would help in life.

For physical they can encourage the child to ~~walk~~ making the child develop a skill in bike riding. Also they could make the child engage in physical activities running. Also if they are a baby they can help them walk ^{up stairs} by brushing their feet on the ledge of stairs. For intellectual they set a range of appropriate books for the child to read to improve their knowledge. Also they could make the child play board games so they could improve the child's problem solving skills. For emotional by giving them love by showing affection the ^{child} would form an emotional attachment for the first time. Also by showing ~~them~~ For social they could arrange play dates with other children so the child can form bonds, which would help in life.

- Discuss how finding out suddenly that her parents were not her birth parents may affect Tegan's self-concept. [8]

- (c) Whilst Tegan was sorting out her parents' belongings after they died, she discovered adoption papers and a letter from her birth mother. She asked her aunt about the adoption papers who told her that she had been adopted and that her birth mother had also died.

Discuss how finding out suddenly that her parents were not her birth parents may affect Tegan's self-concept. [8]

Emotional development - Tegan may feel angry and annoyed that she wasn't told about her adoption. There may be a sense of resentment and bitterness towards both families because of the secrecy. She may be upset because she didn't have the opportunity to meet her real parents. She may feel unloved and unwanted.
Life experiences - Finding out you're adopted is not an expected or common experience, therefore she may feel different to everyone else.

Relationships - Because of feeling different, Tegan may feel she doesn't fit in with anyone and that her friends won't like her. She may also lack confidence due^{to} the breakdown in trust, so consequently refrain from having an intimate relationship herself.

Age - Tegan may also feel more mature for her age because she will have to deal with the news in a sensible way. She will also have increased responsibility now that her adoptive parents and birth parents have died despite only being 28.

Appearance - She may feel she lacks an identity since the people she knows may think she doesn't resemble the people believed to be her parents.

- (c) Whilst Tegan was sorting out her parents' belongings after they died, she discovered adoption papers and a letter from her birth mother. She asked her aunt about the adoption papers who told her that she had been adopted and that her birth mother had also died.

Discuss how finding out suddenly that her parents were not her birth parents may affect Tegan's self-concept. [8]

Emotional development - Tegan may feel angry and annoyed that she wasn't told about her adoption. There may be a sense of resentment and bitterness towards both families because of the secrecy. She may be upset because she didn't have the opportunity to meet her real parents. She may feel unloved and unwanted.
Life experiences - Finding out you are adopted is not an expected or common experience, therefore she may feel different to everyone else.

Relationships - Because of feeling different, Tegan may feel she doesn't fit in with anyone and that her friends won't like her. She may also lack confidence due to the breakdown in trust, so consequently refrain from having an intimate relationship herself.

Age - Tegan may also feel more mature for her age because she will have to deal with the news in a sensible way. She will also have increased responsibility now that her adoptive parents and birth parents have died despite only being 28.

Appearance - She may feel she lacks an identity since the people she knows may think she doesn't resemble the people believed to be her parents.

Tegan's self concept will be negative. She may feel abandoned by her birth mother, therefore worthless. Also, she may feel betrayed by her adopted parents, knowing they have lied to her throughout her lifetime. In addition, she may feel sad that she never met her biological mother. Also, she may feel lack of trust in people which could affect her socially. She may feel that she cannot trust anyone, even those close to her. Also, she may feel that she was lost out with her biological family, any siblings or relatives she may have had a relationship with.

Tegan's self concept will be negative. She may feel abandoned by her birth mother, therefore worthless. Also, she may feel betrayed by her adopted parents, knowing they have lied to her throughout her lifetime. In addition, she may feel sad that she never met her biological mother. Also, she may feel lack of trust in people which could affect her socially. She may feel that she cannot trust anyone, even those close to her. Also, she may feel that she has lost out with her biological family, any siblings or relatives she may have had a relationship with.

Tegan may have suffered depression after finding out that her parents weren't actually her real parents. She may have suffered an illness as stress can bring an illness on. She may have wanted to know more about her birth parents and where they came from. She may have felt that her adoption parents lied to her for a reason. Her self-concept may be negative as she didn't know her real parents and she may have wanted to know more about them. ~~Her two children and her husband~~ This may affect her two children and her husband's lives as she may take her anger out on them, or even her depression. She may feel like she can't trust any of her family or anyone for that matter.

Legan may have suffered depression after finding out that her parents weren't actually her real parents. She may have suffered an illness as stress can bring an illness on. She may have wanted to know more about her birth parents and where they came from. She may have felt that her adoption parents lied to her for a reason. Her self-concept may be negative as she didn't know her real parents and she may have wanted to know more about them. ~~Her two children and her husband~~ This may affect her two children and her husband's lives as she may take her anger out on them, or even her depression. She may feel like she can't trust any of her family or anyone for that matter.