

Read these three examples of dating profiles. Based on the advice you have read so far, which one best suits the form and why?

I have been in the —— area for a few years now and always looking to meet new people. I am a very hard worker and love my job. I work a lot, but I know how to balance well. I enjoy meeting new people and going to new places. I am very spontaneous and I love the outdoors, watching movies, dancing, and travelling. A great date can be staying at home with a movie and popcorn, or a night on the town. I made myself a promise a few years ago to take a vacation somewhere new, out of state, every year. I have not been disappointed yet. I would really love to see Europe.

Well, that is a little about me if you are interested say hello and we will chat. Talk to you soon!!

100% Italian, fun loving, affectionate young lady who knows what it takes to make a relationship work. Tired of meeting BOYS who tell me what I want to hear, make and break promises, and aren't ready for something serious.

You: Honest, mature, gentleman, emotionally, mentally, financially secure. Knows how to treat a lady, ready for a long term relationship Please.....mean what you say and say what you mean!!!

I live on the East Coast and travel to West every week for work. Being in California 4 days/week gets lonely. I am looking to meet someone in the this area and see what happens! Relocating for the right person is definitely an option. First date....not sure!!! I am willing to entertain any reasonable offer.

I don't like most guys, but... I am not interested in most guys and besides perhaps that what makes those few unique individuals that I do connect with all more special. Myself – restless, analytical, and opinionated. I am not offended by a dirty joke and can dish out one of my own. I am independent but far from being a feminist. Sarcasm is a spice of life, so bring it on. Timeless books and movies that make you wonder for days about whose side you are on put great flavour into many of my evenings. What's your story? What are you greatest pet-peeves and what makes you weak in your knees from joy and happiness."

Read full article